

The image is a black and white line drawing of various autumn leaves and acorns, arranged to frame the central text. The leaves are of different shapes and sizes, some with serrated edges and others with smooth edges. They are scattered around the text, with some overlapping. In the bottom right corner, there is a detailed drawing of an acorn with its cap. The entire illustration is enclosed in a simple rectangular border.

November